Item 1.01. Entry Into a Material Definitive Agreement

On April 5, 2006, Boston Scientific Corporation and Abbott Laboratories entered into Amendment No. 4 (the Amendment) to the Transaction Agreement dated as of January 8, 2006 (as amended, the Transaction Agreement). Pursuant to the Amendment, Abbott's obligation to supply everolimus eluting stents to Boston Scientific in Europe will terminate on the earliest of (a) 90 days following the issuance of a European Commission design examination certificate (pursuant to which a CE mark may be affixed) with respect to an everolimus eluting stent on a Boston Scientific platform, (b) three years following the date on which Boston Scientific receives from Abbott its first commercial shipment of everolimus eluting stents for marketing and sale by Boston Scientific in Europe, unless an extension is granted under certain circumstances set forth in the Amendment, and (c) June 30, 2012. Also pursuant to the Amendment, the license granted by Abbott to Boston Scientific to use the intellectual property related to Guidant Corporation's drug eluting stent system program that is included in the Guidant vascular and endovascular businesses purchased by Abbott will be non-exclusive, except that it will be co-exclusive as to everolimus eluting stent systems which means that any rights to such intellectual property granted by Abbott to a third party will not extend to such third party's drug eluting stent system if the drug used in such system is everolimus. The Amendment, among other things, also provides that Abbott will have an exclusive right to sublicense certain other vascular and endovascular intellectual property assets of Guidant that it licenses from Boston Scientific for any and all purposes in the vascular intervention or endovascular solutions fields.

A copy of the Amendment is attached hereto as Exhibit 10.1 and is incorporated herein by reference. The foregoing description of the Amendment is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Amendment.

Item 8.01. Other Events

On April 5, 2006, Boston Scientific issued a press release announcing that it has entered into an agreement containing consent orders with the staff of the Federal Trade Commission relating to its proposed combination with Guidant. A copy of the press release is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and incorporated herein by reference.
