Q&A Update #2

October 27, 2011

Compensation and Benefits

1. With the expected closing of the transaction (closing) in the second quarter of 2012, how will Base Salary Adjustments (BSAs) be handled?
 - Awarding of BSAs will depend on timing of closing. If the closing occurs after the time when we annually award BSAs, the BSAs (if any) will be awarded by El Paso Corporation.

2. Along with our 2011 bonus, which will be paid in 2012 to the extent earned in 2011, will the 401(k) additional matching contribution that s based on our position within our peer group still be paid in the same manner?
 - Yes, the discretionary match for the 401(k) will be made in 2012 if we are above median compared to our peers at the end of 2011.

3. Will there be any restricted stock granted in 2012 (for 2011 performance) as part of El Paso s standard compensation program?

Edgar Filing: EL PASO CORP/DE - Form 425

- El Paso will not make equity grants in April 2012, as the closing is expected to occur in the second quarter. Such long-term incentive grants are typically issued to incent future performance. In addition, El Paso stock will not trade after the closing. Once the closing occurs, Kinder Morgan will make equity grants to employees eligible to receive grants under its Long Term Incentive Program. Kinder Morgan's practice is to make equity grants in July under its Long Term Incentive Program. Note: El Paso employees who in the past have received Long Term Incentive Program grants may or may not be eligible under the Kinder Morgan program.

4. Will there be a retention bonus plan?

- Yes, there will be a retention program for employees who primarily provide services to the E&P business. There is a component of this program that will apply to all full-time employees who are slated to transition to EP Energy, other than officers. 8. If employees are participating in the El Paso Stock Purchase Plan (ESPP) and buying company stock through payroll deduction, will that continue?

- Deductions will continue through the end of 2011. For ESPP participants in 2012, deductions will be taken up until a date that occurs shortly before the closing. That date will be communicated to you in a separate mailing prior to the closing if you are a participant in the ESPP during 2012. Information on 2012 ESPP enrollment will be sent out in the near future for eligible employees who wish to join or existing participants who wish to increase contributions.

- We are currently working through how to handle these issues to ensure we treat employees fairly. We will know more information in the future and will provide you with any updates.

- We will operate under the normal course of business and conduct business as usual. El Paso is currently hiring for critical positions and has stopped the process to hire duplicate positions that were identified as part of Project Zygotity.

About the Transaction

41. Who else submitted a bid for El Paso?

- Details about the process will be publicly disclosed in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which will be made soon.

42. When will the closing occur and what needs to happen?

- The transaction's closing, which is expected to occur in the second quarter of 2012, is subject to approval by the shareholders of both companies, as well as regulatory approval. Kinder Morgan already has agreement among its major shareholders to approve the transaction. The optimal result would be to have a single buyer ready to buy the E&P assets at the same time as the closing.

43. Should we continue to transfer responsibilities and processes to employees who were slated to transition to EP Energy?

- We're committed to delivering a fully functioning E&P company as part of the transaction. We are examining the various processes we had already implemented through Project Zygotity and are determining which processes should move forward. We'll provide more information on which processes will stop and which will go forward in the near future.

44. Will we see a timeline and a formal transition plan?

- Yes, the parties have started the integration planning process, and integration plans will be communicated once they are finalized.

- Kinder Morgan plans to sell the E&P business contemporaneously with the closing or shortly thereafter.

- We can't speculate, but E&P business is well-positioned to be sold as a staffed and operationally-ready business to a potential buyer.

47. Why did Kinder Morgan pursue this transaction now?

- Kinder Morgan has stated that this was the right time to pursue this opportunity and make the acquisition, noting that natural gas is expected to play an increasingly integral role in North America. Chairman and CEO Rich Kinder reiterated this point at the October 17 all-employee meeting.

48. Do we have a plan in case the transaction doesn't close?

- We expect the transaction will close in the second quarter of 2012. The transaction has been approved by both companies' boards of directors. Financing has been secured from Barclays. The transaction is subject to customary regulatory approvals, including review by the antitrust agencies. The companies are largely complementary, so we anticipate that the transaction will be cleared by the relevant regulatory authorities.

El Paso's Operations

49. What will happen to our Pipeline expansions?

- The companies will continue to operate business as usual until the transaction is completed. The proposed acquisition of El Paso Corporation by Kinder Morgan has no effect on current pipeline infrastructure expansion projects, nor will the proposed acquisition have any impact on expansion.
