Petrobras clarifies charter contracts

(Rio de Janeiro, July 1, 2003). PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S.A Petrobras, (BOVESPA: PETR3 / PETR4, NYSE: PBR / PBRA, LATIBEX: XPBR / XPBRA), Brazil's largest oil and gas, petrochemicals and energy company, announces that in line with current practices in the international oil market, the Company signs international contracts for chartering offshore drilling and production units (platforms and drilling rigs).

According to the Income Tax Regulation (Decree 3,000/99), overseas payments for contracts of this nature enjoy a zero withholding tax rate in line with article 691 of the same Decree.

It should be noted that since the beginning of its exploration activities on the Brazilian Continental Shelf, Petrobras has been using these contracts to charter offshore units for drilling and production.

On the basis of the 2nd article of Law 9,537/97, the Brazilian Internal Revenue Service considers that drilling and production platforms cannot be classified as sea-going vessels and therefore should not be chartered but leased. Based on this interpretation, overseas remittances for servicing chartering agreements would be subject to withholding tax at the rate of 15% or 25%.

In the light of Petrobras's practice in this case, on June 27, 2003, the Internal Revenue Service served a tax assessment notice on the Company amounting to R$ 3,064 million covering the period 1999 to 2002. Using the same arguments, on February 17, 2003, another tax assessment notice had already been issued for R$ 93 million with respect to 1998, against which, on March 20, 2003, Petrobras lodged an appeal.

Petrobras disagrees with the Internal Revenue Service's interpretation as to charter contracts, given that the Federal Supreme Court has already ruled that, in the context of its judgment with respect to the IPI tax, offshore platforms are to be classified as sea-going vessels. The IRS's interpretation also has extremely negative implications for all those companies involved with offshore oil exploration and production in Brazil.

In line with the procedure already adopted in the first case, Petrobras intends to lodge an appeal against this most recent tax assessment notice.
