Item 1. Business

Information set forth in this report constitutes and includes forward looking information made within the meaning of Section 27A of the Security Act of 1933, as amended and Section 21E of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, that involve risks and uncertainties. The Company's actual results may differ significantly from the results discussed in the forward looking statements as a result of a number of factors, including the ability of its licensee to continue to sale the licensed products, market conditions generally and in the personal computer and semiconductor industries, changes in intellectual property law in the semiconductor industry and in general and other matters. Readers are encouraged to refer to "Factors Affecting Earnings and Stock Price" found below.

Our annual reports on Form 10-K, quarterly reports on Form 10-Q, current reports on Form 8-K and all amendments to those reports are available on the Securities and Exchange Commission website <http://www.sec.gov>.

Introduction

OPTi Inc. a California corporation ("OPTi" or the "Company"), was founded in 1989, as an independent supplier of semiconductor products to the personal computer ("PC") and embedded marketplaces.

In September 2002, the Company sold its product fabrication, distribution and sales operations to Opti Technologies, Inc., an unrelated third party, and the Company ceased manufacturing, marketing and sales operations. However, the Company believes that certain of its patented technology is in widespread unlicensed use and the Company has been engaged in perfecting its intellectual property position, investigating unlicensed use of its technology and developing and validating a strategy to pursue product licenses from unlicensed users.

As of the end of fiscal 2004, the Company expects to receive only an additional $52,000 in royalty revenue due from the sale of its operations to Opti Technology, Inc. and those payments are expected to be completed in the first half of fiscal 2005. The Company currently expects that all other future revenues, if any, will arise only through the pursuit of its patent infringement cases and associated licensing efforts. The Company has accordingly reduced its operating personnel and expenses to minimum levels.

In addition, during the December 2003 fiscal quarter, the Company realized a gain of $306,000 on the sale of its remaining shares in Tripath Technology, Inc., a publicly traded company. OPTi had made strategic investments in Tripath then a non-public company. In April 2002, OPTi declared an asset dividend and distributed substantially all of its holdings in Tripath to OPTi shareholders. OPTi retained 52,952 shares in Tripath in order to avoid the difficulties relating to distributing fractional shares of Tripath to OPTi shareholders in the asset dividend. Following the December 2003 fiscal quarter sale of the shares in Tripath, OPTi holds no further shares in Tripath or any other companies. OPTi holds substantially all of its liquid assets in cash and cash equivalents for the purpose of financing its efforts to pursue licenses and claims relating to its intellectual property and the Company has no current intention of investing or trading in securities.

Edgar Filing: OPTI INC - Form 10-K

The Company changed its fiscal year-end from December 31, to March 31, effective with the year beginning April 1, 2002. A three-month transition period from January 1, 2002 through March 31, 2002 (the Transition Period) precedes the start of the 2003 fiscal year. 2001 refer to the years ended December 31, the Transition Period refers to the three months ended March 31, 2002, and 2004 and 2003 refers to the twelve months ended March 31, 2004 and 2003, respectively.

Industry Background

During the last decade, the PC industry has grown rapidly as increased functionality combined with lower pricing have made PC valuable and affordable tools for business and personal use.

The trend to higher performance, lower cost personal computers has been accompanied by a variety of changes in the market for personal computers and the technologies used to address these emerging market requirements. The consumer and home office sectors have become the fastest growing sectors of the PC market, driven, in part, by the emergence of low-cost multimedia computers and peripherals.

These changes in the PC market and technology directly affect the market for core logic chipsets. The primary customer base for chipsets has shifted significantly to major PC manufacturers and to the suppliers to these leading OEM customers, in contrast to prior periods in which motherboard manufacturers and system integrators represented the largest portion of the market for core logic chipsets. Large OEMs require increasingly higher levels of product integration, thus enabling them to reduce parts count and control total product costs.

Growth has continued in the PC market as computer and consumer electronics industries have converged, combining increased multimedia and communications capabilities. Today's systems increasingly offer more powerful microprocessors, highly integrated chipsets, integrated video, stereo sound, highspeed fax and modem communications and CD-ROM.

OPTi believes that the existing technology used in current generations of core logic chipsets may be infringing some of the patented technology that the Company had developed.

Strategy

Pursue Infringement Claims for Proprietary Chipset Technologies

The Company's current strategy is to pursue licensing opportunities as a means of resolving potential infringement of its proprietary intellectual property in the core logic area. During the first quarter of fiscal year 2000, the Company entered into a one-time licensing arrangement for $13,311,000 on the core logic technology that the Company had developed during its existence. During the first quarter of fiscal year 2004, the Company also entered into a one-time license arrangement on its patented technology. The Company believes that there may be additional companies that may be infringing its patents. The Company is actively working to explore all possible arrangements to settle such infringement.

Research and Development

As of June 14, 2004, the Company had no research and development employees. During 2004, 2003 and 2002 the Company had no research and development expenses. All research and development costs are expensed as incurred.

At this time the Company is not engaged in any research and development activity.

Intellectual Property

The Company seeks to protect its proprietary technology by the filing of patents. The Company currently has thirty four issued U.S. patents based on certain aspects of the Company's designs. The Company currently has two pending U.S. patents for its technology, and there can be no assurance that the pending patents will be issued or, if issued, will provide protection for the Company's competitive position.

Table of Contents

The Company has been and may from time to time continue to be notified of claims that it may be infringing patents, copyrights or other intellectual property rights owned by other third parties. There can be no assurances that these or other companies will not in the future pursue claims against the Company with respect to the alleged infringement of patents, copyrights or other intellectual property rights. In addition, litigation may be necessary to protect the Company's intellectual property rights and trade secrets, to determine the validity of and scope of the proprietary rights of others or to defend against third party claims of invalidity. Any litigation could result in substantial costs and diversion of resources and could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Company has entered into license agreements in the past regarding certain alleged infringement claims asserted by third parties. There can be no assurance that additional infringement, invalidity, right to use or ownership claims by third parties or claims for indemnification resulting from infringement claims will be asserted in the future. If any other claims or actions are asserted against the Company, the Company may seek to obtain a license under a third party's intellectual property rights. There can be no assurance, however, that a license will be available under reasonable terms or at all. The failure to obtain a license under a patent or intellectual property right from a third party for technology used by the Company could cause the Company to incur substantial liabilities and adversely affect the Company's pursuit of its own patent infringement claims. In addition, should the Company decide to litigate the claims, such litigation could be extremely expensive and time consuming and could materially and adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition and results of operations, regardless of the outcome of the litigation.

Factors Affecting Earnings and Stock Price

Reporting of OPTi Common Stock Trading on the Pink Sheets

In May 2004, the Nasdaq National Market advised us that it had denied our appeal of the Nasdaq staff's determination to delist our common stock due to the staff's belief that OPTi's current business plan of pursuing license revenues from companies we believe are infringing OPTi's patents did not constitute active business operations, at a level and type consistent with the Nasdaq's qualitative listing criteria for listed companies.

Since May 26, 2004, our common stock has traded over-the-counter and has been quoted on the Pink Sheets. Some investors may be less likely to invest in stocks that are not traded on recognized national markets and listing services such as Nasdaq. Therefore, investors in our common stock may experience reduced liquidity when attempting to trade shares of our common stock.

Dependence on Intellectual Property Position

The success of the Company's current strategy of resolving potential infringement of its patented core logic technology can be affected by new developments in intellectual property law generally and with respect to semiconductor patents in particular and upon the Company's success in defending its patent position. It is difficult to predict developments and changes in intellectual property law. However, such changes could have an adverse impact on the Company's ability to pursue infringement claims on its previously developed technology.

Uncertain Revenue Stream

Edgar Filing: OPTI INC - Form 10-K

During fiscal 2004, payments from OPTi's significant revenue stream (royalty payments from Opti Technologies, Inc., an unrelated third party to whom the Company sold rights to its product lines in September 2002) continued but OPTi expects that the remaining $52,000 of revenue will be completed in the first half of fiscal 2005. No further revenue is expected from Opti Technologies, Inc. and the Company's future revenues depend on the success of our strategy of pursuing license claims to our intellectual property position. Although the Company recently engaged a major law firm to pursue licensing and claims on our behalf, there can be no assurances whether or when revenues will result from the pursuit of such claims.

Table of Contents

In addition, the Company's focus on pursuing claims related to its intellectual property position can result in one time payments that may increase revenues during a single fiscal period but may not be repeated in future periods. For example, in the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2003, the Company reached a settlement of certain claims and counterclaims with National Semiconductor that included, among other things, a one time cash payment to the Company. Under the terms of the settlement, the Company will not receive future payments from National Semiconductor. Consequently, settlements of these claims will cause our operating results to fluctuate from period to period and revenues that we may receive from such a settlement should not be viewed as indicative of future trends in our operating results.

Fluctuations in Operating Results

The Company has experienced significant fluctuations in its operating results in the past and expects that it will experience such fluctuations in the future. In the past, these fluctuations were caused by a variety of factors including increased competition, price competition, changes in customer demand, ability to continue to sale existing products, inventory adjustments, changes in the availability of foundry capacity, changes in the mix of products sold and litigation expenses. In the future, the Company's operating results will largely be dependent on its ability to generate revenue from its pursuit of license and patent infringement claims.

Limited Trading Volume

Daily trading volume in our shares has varied from zero to over one million shares during the last two years. Therefore, investors in our stock may find liquidity in our shares to be limited and difficult to predict.

Possible Volatility of Stock Price

There can be no assurances as to the Company's operating results in any given period. The Company expects that the trading price of its common stock will continue to be subject to the possibility of significant volatility.

Employees

As of March 31, 2004, the Company had one full-time and two part-time general and administration employees. The two part-time employees were also the executive officers of the Company. The Company's employees are not represented by any collective bargaining unit, and the Company has never experienced a work stoppage. The Company's ability to retain key employees is a critical factor to the Company's success.

The executive officers of the Company as of June 14, 2004 were as follows:

Name	Age	Position with the Company
-------------	------------	----------------------------------

Edgar Filing: OPTI INC - Form 10-K

He also founded and was the first President of SIA (the Semiconductor Industry Association). Mr. Marren is also a director of several private companies.

Michael Mazzone has served as Chief Financial Officer since December 2000. Mr. Mazzone also served with the Company from October 1993 to January 2000. The last two years prior to his departure Mr. Mazzone served as its Chief Financial Officer. Mr. Mazzone also currently serves as Chief Financial Officer of Horizon Navigation, Inc., a privately held navigation company, and has served in that role since January 2003. Prior to rejoining the Company, Mr. Mazzone was Chief Financial Officer of Xpeed, Inc., a startup in the Digital Subscriber Line CPE business, from January 2000 to November 2000.

The Company is headquartered in Mountain View, California, where it leases administrative facilities in one location consisting of an aggregate of approximately, 2,700 square feet. The lease on this building expires in April 2005. The Company believes that these facilities are adequate for its needs in the foreseeable future.

Item 3. Legal Proceedings

The Company from time to time has been notified of claims that it may be infringing patents, maskwork rights, or copyrights owned by third parties. There can be no assurance that the Company will not become involved in litigation regarding the alleged infringements by the Company of third party intellectual property rights. At this time the Company is unaware of any such claims.

Item 4. Submission of Matters to a Vote of Security Holders

OPTi shareholders voted on two proposals at the Company's Annual Meeting of shareholders, which was held on March 25, 2004.

Item 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Information set forth in this report constitutes and includes forward looking information made within the meaning of Section 27A of the Security Act of 1933, as amended and Section 21E of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, that involve risks and uncertainties. The Company's actual results may differ significantly from the results discussed in the forward looking statements as a result of a number of factors, including the ability of its licensee to continue to sale the licensed products, market conditions generally and in the personal computer and semiconductor industries, changes in intellectual property law in the semiconductor industry and in general and other matters. Readers are encouraged to refer to "Factors Affecting Earnings and Stock Price".

OPTi was founded in 1989 and is an independent supplier of semiconductor products to the personal computer market. During fiscal 2003, the Company sold its product fabrication, distribution and sales operations to Opti Technologies, Inc., an unrelated third party. As a result of this transaction all future revenues for the Company are expected to be generated through royalties or from the licensing of the Company's intellectual property. The Company anticipates that it will receive approximately $52,000 of additional royalties during the first half of fiscal 2005 from Opti Technologies, Inc. and does not expect to receive additional significant revenue other than through the pursuit of its patent infringement cases and associated licensing efforts.

In May 2004, the Nasdaq National Market advised us that it had denied our appeal of the Nasdaq staff's determination to delist our common stock. The staff's determination was due to its belief that OPTi's current business plan of pursuing license revenues from companies we believe are infringing OPTi's patents did not constitute active business operations, at a level and type consistent with the Nasdaq's qualitative listing criteria for listed companies. Since May 25, 2004, shares of our common stock have been traded over-the-counter and have been reported on the Pink Sheets.

Critical Accounting Policies

General. Our discussions and analysis of our financial condition and results of operations are based upon our consolidated financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States. The preparation of these financial statements requires that we make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses, and related disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. On an on-going basis, we evaluate our estimates based on historical experience and on various other assumptions that we believe to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions.

We believe that, of the significant accounting policies used in preparation of our consolidated financial statements (see Note 1 of Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements), the following are critical accounting policies, which may involve a higher degree of judgment and complexity.

Litigation and Contingencies. From time to time, we receive various inquiries or claims in connection with patent and other intellectual property rights. We estimate the probable outcome of these claims and accrue estimates of the amounts that we expect to pay upon resolution of such matters, if needed. Should we not be able to secure the terms we expect, these estimates may change and may result in increased accruals, resulting in decreased profits.

Change in Fiscal Year

The Company changed its fiscal year-end from December 31, to March 31, effective with the year beginning April 1, 2002. A three-month transition period from January 1, 2002 through March 31, 2002 (the Transition Period) precedes the start of the 2003 fiscal year. 2001 refer to the years ended December 31, 2001, the Transition Period refers to the three months ended March 31, 2002, and 2004 and 2003 refers to the twelve months ended March 31, 2004 and 2003, respectively.

Table of Contents

2004 Compared to 2003 Net sales for the year ended March 31, 2004 (2004) decreased 66% to $1.1 million, compared to net sales of $3.1 million for the year ended March 31, 2003 (2003). This decrease in net sales was mainly due to the Company having no product sales in 2004 versus $2.2 million in 2003. This decrease in product sales was due to the sale of the operating business to Opti Technologies, Inc., an unrelated third party, in September 2002.

Gross margin for 2004 was 100% as compared to approximately 58% in 2003. This increase in gross margin is attributable to the Company s revenue in 2004 relating entirely to license revenue as compared to the majority of its sales in 2003 being attributable to product sales.

The Company had no research and development (R&D) expenses for 2004 or 2003.

Selling, general and administrative (SG&A) expenses for 2004 were $1.1 million as compared to $1.9 million for 2003. This represented an approximate 40% decrease in SG&A expenses year over year. This decrease was primarily related to the reduction in employee related costs and legal expenses. The Company anticipates that SG&A expenses will increase in fiscal 2005, as it spends more on legal fees as it continues its pursuit of licensing its intellectual property.

Net interest and other income for 2004 was $0.4 million as compared to $1.7 million in 2003. The reduction in net interest and other income in 2004 as compared to 2003 was primarily due to a realized gain of $1.5 million in 2003 relating to the distribution of the Tripath technologies, Inc. shares in May 2003.

The Company s effective tax rate was 0% for 2004 and a tax benefit of 10% in 2003. The Company s effective tax rate differed from the federal statutory rate in 2004 and 2003 primarily due to the utilization of prior year tax losses carried forward.

2003 Compared to 2001 Net sales for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003 (2003) decreased approximately 59% to $3.1 million, compared to net sales of $7.6 million for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2001 (2001). This decrease was partially attributable to the sale of the operating business in September 2002, to an unaffiliated third party Opti Technologies, Inc. Due to the sale of the operating business, the Company had only six months of product sales during fiscal 2003 versus twelve months of product sales in 2001. The decrease was also attributable to a decrease in sales volume of both the Company s core logic and universal serial bus controller products. This decrease was partially offset by an increase in license revenue during 2003 of $823,000 due to the licensing and royalty revenue received from Opti Technologies versus no license revenue in 2001. The Company expects that all future revenue will be derived from royalty and license arrangements.

Gross margin for 2003 increased to approximately 58% as compared to 53% in 2001. This increase in gross margin is attributable to the license revenue of $0.8 million in 2003, which had no associated costs of good sold. Gross margin as a percent of net product sales in 2003 was approximately 43% which was a decrease from the 53% of gross margin in 2001. This decrease in gross margin for net product sales in 2003 compared to 2001 was mainly attributable to lower average selling prices of the Company s universal serial bus controller products.

Edgar Filing: OPTI INC - Form 10-K

The Company had no research and development (R&D) expenses for 2003 as compared to $0.5 million in 2001. This decrease was due to the Company s decision to terminate all future product development in July of 2001.

Selling, general and administrative (SG&A) expenses for 2003 were $1.9 million as compared to $4.3 million in 2001. This decrease in SG&A expenses was primarily attributable to reduced headcount related expenses, costs relating to reduced net sales and lower legal fees.

Table of Contents

Net interest income and other income for 2003 was $1.7 million as compared to $1.7 million in 2001. Interest and other income for 2003 consists primarily of a realized gain of $1.5 million relating to the distribution of the Tripath Technology, Inc. shares in May 2003 and interest income. Interest and other income in 2001 consists primarily of interest income. The decrease in interest income of $0.2 million in 2003 as compared to $1.7 million in 2001 was primarily due to lower average cash balances due to the cash dividend of $17.4 million in February 2002 and lower interest rates during the period.

The Company's effective tax benefit was 10% for 2003 as compared to an effective tax rate of 1% in 2001. The Company's effective tax rate differed from the federal statutory rate in 2003 and 2001 primarily due to the utilization of prior year tax losses carried forward.

March 31, 2003 Quarter Compared to March 31, 2002 Quarter Net sales for the quarter ended March 31, 2003 (Q4 2003) decreased 74% to $0.3 million, compared to net sales of $1.0 million for the quarter ended March 31, 2002 (2002). This decrease in net sales was mainly attributable the company selling its operating business to Opti Technologies in September 2002, therefore the Company had no product sales during Q4 2003 as compared to $1.0 million in net product sales in 2002, offset in part, by $0.3 million in royalty revenue received from Opti Technologies.

Gross margin for Q4 2003 increased to 100% as compared to approximately 46% in 2002. This increase in gross margin is attributable to all of the revenue received in Q4 2003 arising from license revenue which has no associated cost of goods sold as compared to product sales in 2002.

The Company had no R&D expenses for Q4 2003 and 2002. This was due to the Companies decision to terminate all future product development in July of 2001.

SG&A expenses in Q4 2003 were $385,000 as compared to $689,000 for 2002. This represented an approximately 44% decrease in SG&A expenses year over year. This decrease was primarily related to reduced headcount expenses and lower costs relating to reduced net sales.

Net interest and other income for Q4 2003 was $38,000 as compared to $85,000 in 2002. Interest and other income consists principally of interest income and has primarily decreased due to lower average cash balances resulting from a cash dividend of $17.4 million in February 2002 and lower interest rates during the period.

The Company's had no effective tax rate for Q4 2003 and 2002.

Liquidity and Capital Resources The Company has financed its operations through cash generated from operations and an initial public offering of equity in 1993. In 2004, the Company provided cash from operations of approximately $0.2 million primarily due to a decrease in accounts receivable of $.01 million and decreases in prepaid expenses and other assets and accrued expenses totaled $0.1 million. In 2003, the Company provided cash from operations of approximately $0.7 million primarily due a decrease in prepaid expenses and other assets of $1.0 million, inventory of $0.3 million and net income of $1.8 million, offset in part by the non cash gain of $1.5 million on the distribution of the shares of Tripath Technology, Inc., a decrease in accrued expenses of $0.4 million and a decrease in accrued employee compensation of $0.3 million.

Edgar Filing: OPTI INC - Form 10-K

The Company's investing activities provided cash of approximately $0.3 million during 2004. The cash provided in investing activities was attributable to sales of the remaining shares that the Company held in Tripath Technology, Inc. in December 2003. The Company had no investment activity during 2003.

In May 2002, the Company distributed a dividend of 0.1666 shares of Tripath stock on each of the Company's common stock. The total value of the dividend was approximately $2.2 million.

OPTi Inc.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Note 1 Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The Company OPTi Inc., a California corporation, is engaged in licensing its intellectual property for use principally by personal computer manufacturers and semiconductor device manufacturers.

Basis of Presentation The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of OPTi Inc. and each of its subsidiaries for all periods presented.

Change in Year-End The Company changed its fiscal year-end from December 31, to March 31, effective with the year beginning April 1, 2002. A three-month transition period from January 1, 2002 through March 31, 2002 (the Transition Period) precedes the start of the 2003 fiscal year. 2001 refers to the year ended December 31, 2001, the Transition Period refers to the three months ended March 31, 2002 and 2004 and 2003 refers to the twelve months ended March 31, 2004 and 2003, respectively.

Use of Estimates The preparation of financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents The Company considers all highly liquid investments purchased with an original maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents. Cash equivalents are carried at cost, which approximates fair value.

Taxes on Earnings Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the expected tax consequences of temporary differences between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their reported amounts using enacted tax rates in effect for the year the differences are expected to reverse. The Company records a valuation allowance to reduce the deferred tax assets to the amount that is more likely than not to be recognized.

Property and Equipment Property and equipment are stated at cost, less accumulated depreciation and amortization. Depreciation is computed by the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, ranging from two to five years.

Revenue Recognition The Company recognized product sales upon transfer of title, which typically was upon shipment and provided for an allowance for the estimated return of product. Revenue from royalty arrangements is recognized when earned and when collectibility is probable.

Stock-Based Compensation We generally grant stock options to our employees for a fixed number of shares with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the stock on the date of the grant. As permitted under Statement of Financial Accounting Standard No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation (FAS 123) and Statement of Financial Accounting Standard No. 148, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation Transition and Disclosure (FAS 148), we have elected to follow the intrinsic value method of accounting as defined by Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees (APB 25) and related interpretations in accounting for stock awards to employees. Accordingly, no compensation expense is recognized in our financial statements in connection with employee stock option awards where the exercise price of the award is equal to the fair market value of the stock at the date of the award. When stock options are granted with an exercise price that is lower than the fair market value of the stock on the date of grant, the difference is recorded as deferred compensation and amortized to expense on a graded basis over the vesting term of the stock options.

Pro forma information regarding net income (loss) and income (loss) per share is required by SFAS 123 which also requires that the information be determined as if the Company has accounted for its employee stock options granted subsequent to December 31, 1994 under the fair value method of that Statement. The fair value for these options was estimated at the date of the grant using a Black-Scholes option pricing model.

The fair value of the Company's stock based awards to employees was estimated assuming no expected dividends and the following weighted-average assumptions:
