"We are encouraged by the sales results in both the third and fourth quarters of fiscal year 2017, and we are focused on continuing that trend into fiscal year 2018. SMIT's Successful Rights Offering led to Increase in Cash SMIT was facing a cash flow issue starting in FY2016. SMIT management and the Board were looking for a solution to this issue and explored various options, including sale of its real estate. To alleviate the cash flow problem, SMIT distributed nontransferable subscription rights to purchase SMIT's common stock to its existing shareholders ("Rights Offering"). This was a thoughtful option for the Company, as opposed to selling real estate, since the Company would be able to add cash without diluting its assets. On December 20, 2017, SMIT successfully completed its Rights Offering. Through the Rights Offering 998,635 common shares were issued resulting in net cash proceeds of $2,386,029. SMIT's Right Offering was heavily oversubscribed, evidencing shareholder confidence in the Board, management and the FY2017 Strategy. Of note, SMIT's largest shareholder fully participated in the Rights Offering.

Board and Corporate Governance

Board is open to refreshment In the last three years, SMIT has refreshed 40% of its Board. In May 2016, the Board appointed Charles Davidson as an independent director. Mr. Davidson brought knowledge needed at SMIT in Innovation, Sales, Marketing, and Software systems. In January 2018, David Case was appointed to the Board. David brought with him extensive knowledge of all SMIT's diverse markets, products, and systems. Michael Ellsworth's assumption of the chairmanship role in January 2017 upon the resignation of founder Wayne Case reflects the Board's desire to strengthen the role of outside directors in shaping the direction of the Company going forward. As the Board considers board composition, this consideration includes expansion of the Board with the goal of broadening the overall perspectives on the Board – and to include, among other criteria, a diverse candidate with sales and marketing experience and global business knowledge. The Board is considering the use of a search firm for such process.

Sententia critique: The Board is unwilling to consider third party inquiries into acquiring its businesses. Sententia's Critiques are Misleading This is false. The Board reviews and evaluates all acquisition inquiries individually and in great detail. None have yet met the valuation criteria for companies in the industry. Further, the Company is not unwilling to consider inquiries as it has successfully sold its CASI and LaserCheck product lines. More importantly, the Board and Company do not publicly comment on activity with regard to potential acquisition offers.

Sententia's Critiques are Misleading Sententia critique: Mr. David Case was promoted to CEO because he is the son of the founder. The Board weighed the option of an outside hire against Mr. Case and determined it was in the best interests of the Company and its shareholders to appoint Mr. Case. Mr. Case joined SMIT at its formation, and thus has extensive knowledge of the Company. Through his over three decade tenure with the Company, Mr. Case was instrumental in growing SMIT into a technical/engineering focused company that designs and produces its own products. Mr. Case was the best candidate to stabilize the Company in the short term and to focus execution of the FY2017 Strategy, specifically its balancing business which is at the core of the Company's product line and largest source of revenue. The selection of Mr. Case also mitigated the risk and delay which would have been associated with an outside hire. The necessary business adjustments were able to happen very quickly as a result of Mr. Case's appointment and, importantly, the SMIT employee base maintained focus in the short transition. The subsequent results from this change have been in line with the strategy and Mr. Case's selection. Further, the Board chose Mr. Case one year after his father departed from SMIT in all capacities.

Our Nominee: David W. Case Mr. Case has been Vice President of Operations of the Company since 1996 until appointment to Chief Executive Officer and President in January 2018. Due to his long tenure of 32 years with the Company, Mr. Case has extensive knowledge of all of SMIT diverse markets, technology, products, distribution, and internal systems. The breadth of his unique knowledge of the Company, its products and the markets in which the Company participates are essential to informed decision-making by the Board. Mr. Case has been instrumental in the changes and improved performance over the last several quarters. Mr. Case's intricate knowledge and trusted relationships within the European OEM market are essential. The Company's sales in Europe represented about 20% of total net sales in the fourth quarter of FY2018 and is an expected significant growth driver for SMIT's business moving forward. It is critical that Board includes someone who understands this market. Contrary to the dissident's characterization of Mr. Case, he was not responsible for the business strategies during the period cited as underperforming. Mr. Case was a proponent of the FY2017 Strategy to focus on core business lines and dispose of underperforming products. For the reasons described above, Mr. Case was the best candidate for SMIT and its shareholders.

Our Nominee: Maynard E. Brown Mr. Brown has more than 40 years of experience in advising publicly held corporations in securities law, corporate structure and matters related to financial and stock exchange transactions. Mr. Brown provides essential analytical support for the board in its evaluation of accounting, strategy, and operations issues. Mr. Brown has an intricate knowledge of legal issues and the Company's history, which is valuable to the Board as it plots its future. Mr. Brown has served as a director of New Oroperu Resources (ORO) since 1995. Mr. Brown has lead SMIT through legal matters and, under his guidance, the Company has never been the subject of any material regulatory complaint or investigation concerning its corporate governance, compliance with SEC or NASDAQ requirements. Mr. Brown has extensive knowledge of financial statements through his background in both public and private corporations. He is able to fully understand the depth and complexities of SMIT's financial statements and contributes importantly to all board decision making.

Our Board has the right mix of necessary skills and experience

Sententia Nominee: Andrew P. Hines Mr. Hines offers nothing unique to the composition of the board and has duplicative skills; he has no experience in the industries served. Mr. Hines has a poor track record as a public company director at IMP and TROX. The Board does not believe it is in the interests of all shareholders or the Company for Mr. Hines to be a director. Sententia Nominee: Michael R. Zapata Mr. Zapata has no relevant experience in SMIT's industries. Despite the Board's repeated attempts to engage Mr. Zapata in substantive business decisions, he has declined to do so beyond a first meeting. The Board values members that are willing to engage in open communication with the Board. Mr. Zapata has emphasized the level of his ownership in the Company but has also sold and repurchased shares during recent months for short term gain. The Board believes this illustrates his short-term perspective. It appears that Mr. Zapata is primarily focused on developing his own self-promotional narrative as an activist investor. The Board believes that Mr. Zapata has intentionally misstated facts and, therefore, cannot be trusted. The Board does not believe it is in the interests of all shareholders or the Company for Mr. Zapata to be a director.

Sententia's nominees' track record of failure as directors In July 2016, Zapata and Hines joined the board of Intermap Technologies Corporation, a company operating in the unrelated industry of geospatial mapping and whose stock trades on the Toronto Stock Exchange (IMP) and the OTC Bulletin Board (ITMSF). They make up half of IMP's board. Since joining the IMP board, fees for non-employee directors in the form of cash and stock awards have increased substantially, and Zapata and Hines in the event of a change of control (broadly defined) are each to receive a cash payment of at least $300,000. They also receive stock options each year. In 2017, Hines earned $151,560 and Zapata earned $145,334. Since the Sententia nominees joined the IMP board, its stock has dropped from $3.90 to $0.44 CAD in just two years – down almost 89%. Source: Yahoo Finance. Data as of 9/18/2018. Sententia's "Plan": Sale of real estate Sententia's "Plan" Does Not Work All SMIT's real estate are presently being used for operations. Schmitt spends very little on property operational costs at this time. Selling real estate would result in higher operational costs and require a lot of management and employee time to accomplish. This would be disruptive to other priorities such as increasing revenue and stabilizing operations. Further, the Rights Offering solved the immediate cash flow issue. Sententia's "Plan": Sale of non-core business Sententia wants to sell the Acuity and Xact business lines, however in FY2018 these businesses were significant contributors to the overall Company bringing in $4.7 million of the total $4.9 million in measurement segment net sales. SMIT's Strategic Committee was formed for the sole purpose of evaluating the business lines; the committee works with much more information and insight than Sententia. All three major business lines add contribution margin to the bottom line of SMIT. No business, at its present size, could support the Company alone.

Sententia's "Plan": Instill operational discipline Sententia's "Plan" Does Not Work Sententia claims it would use "targeted cost-cutting" and "improve working capital management" but fails to address how it would specifically achieve these goals. Since David Case's appointment as CEO in January 2018, there has been increased operational discipline in expense management and staff structure changes. SMIT has a very lean but dedicated and hard-working core management team. Sententia's peer group used - using 44 companies with a market cap of $1 billion or less - for its charts are unrealistic, uninformed and paint a skewed picture. Sententia's "Plan": Improve corporate governance SMIT has refreshed the board two times in the last three years. SMIT has an independent chairman of the board.

SMIT's FY2017 Strategy is Working SMIT has dedicated time and resources to its FY2017 Strategy since July 2016. Any change to the FY2017 Strategy will interrupt its current progress. SMIT and its shareholders are experiencing the positive results of its FY2017 Strategy as evidenced by multiple quarters of improved earnings and improved stock price by 36.4%*. SMIT's nominees, David Case and Maynard Brown, are the best directors to execute SMIT's FY2017 Strategy. SMIT has tried in good faith to negotiate with the dissident. However, SMIT has been repeatedly ignored by dissident. Lastly, the dissident has not presented a credible plan. They lack experience and knowledge and have a history of poor performance at other companies. Source: Factset. *SMIT's stock price increased 36.4% from Jul. 15, 2016 to Jun. 10, 2018, the last day before Sententia Capital filed 13D.
