ALL ASSOCIATES NOTE

Email Subject: WellCare to Combine with Centene

A message from CEO Ken Burdick

Today, we announced an agreement to combine WellCare with Centene. Our press release can be found here.

Bringing these two companies together makes great strategic sense as it gives WellCare a huge boost towards achieving our vision of becoming the leader in government-sponsored healthcare. In addition to our strategic alignment, this combination allows WellCare to better serve our members across a broader spectrum of government managed care.

Undoubtedly, this announcement will come as a surprise to many. So, I want to make sure that I take a moment to explain our decision and the rationale behind it.

First, Centene's extensive geographic reach adds significant scale to our current footprint. The combined enterprise will provide coverage to approximately 22 million members in the U.S. across all 50 states. Beyond our significant increase in size, the adoption of best practices, tools and talent from the two companies positions WellCare to deliver improved and expanded solutions to our members, providers and government partners.

Next, Centene and WellCare share a commitment to focus on the whole person, not just physical health. Our companies are dedicated to keeping healthcare local – allowing the day-to-day decisions to be made closer to home between our members and their physicians.

Lastly, and equally as important, we believe this alignment provides our associates more significant opportunities for personal and professional growth as part of a larger organization. The combined company will be headquartered in St. Louis, the location of Centene's headquarters, and will continue to support substantial operations in our home state of Florida. And yes, there will be change, which I know can create uncertainty. However, we will do everything in our power to communicate regularly throughout the integration and regulatory process.

Who is Centene?

Centene was founded in 1984 and is headquartered in St. Louis with 47,000 employees serving approximately 14 million members across their diverse portfolio of businesses. Centene is predominantly a government program company serving Medicaid, Medicare, correctional facilities, Department of Defense (known as TRICARE) and Health Insurance Exchange or Marketplace business through the Affordable Care Act. In addition, Centene services commercial customers (employers), two international markets and specialty companies that provide dental, vision, pharmacy and behavioral health solutions.

Centene represents more than three decades of experience operating government-sponsored programs, and remains as dedicated as ever to the health and unique needs of the communities it serves. Much like WellCare, the company has grown significantly during the past four years and represents a total revenue of $60 billion in 2018.

Why are we entering into this agreement?

As we look at our market, it is increasingly clear that organizations flourish when they can provide more integrated, cost-effective, value-driven outcomes to members, providers and government partners. Combining with Centene increases our ability to deliver on these outcomes and ensure that we continue to grow.

With our united strength, we are better positioned to serve our members across a broader spectrum of government managed care, as well as organic expansion into emerging state programs. The Centene team values what we have accomplished, and we are confident that we can leverage our expertise across the combined organization to deliver on our growth commitments.

What does this mean for WellCare associates and leadership?

I firmly believe that WellCare associates will benefit from this transaction, with a focus on long-term career growth. While there are many decisions to be made, particularly where there are overlaps, the combined company will bring together our best talent, processes and assets to create a true market leader. Centene recognizes that our success lies with our people, which represent some of the best in the business.

Also, at WellCare, we talk a lot about our values because we believe it's integral to our success. I can assure you that Centene is no different. In fact, the values of the two companies are so aligned that I'm certain we will only be stronger together. WellCare is becoming part of a diversified, global healthcare company that is committed to transforming the health of each community one person at a time. Both companies are dedicated to serving some of the world's most complex populations and helping members live better, healthier lives.

What is next?

An agreement is an important first step in a process that will likely take some time to complete. The transaction is subject to approval by WellCare and Centene's shareholders, receipt of required state regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions. We expect to close the transaction in the first half of 2020. While that process is ongoing, we will be as transparent as possible and will update you regularly.

For now, it is business as usual at both WellCare and Centene. We must continue to operate as two separate companies and compete fully and fairly. And, while we can begin some initial planning, we cannot share sensitive information that we would not share with other competitors.

On a personal level, my last five years at WellCare provided an incredible journey and certainly some of the most gratifying experiences during my 39-year career. I am so proud of our accomplishments. At WellCare, we are One Team—a group of people who come together every day to build a culture grounded in humility, built on respect for one another and driven by an unwavering commitment to making a positive difference in our members' lives.

I want you to know that your contributions to WellCare's success are extraordinary. I'm truly excited to join you on this next significant chapter of our journey.

Ken
