PRINCIPAL TERMS OF COMMITMENTS WITH THE GOVERNMENT OF GHANA REGARDING ANGLOGOLD'S PROPOSED MERGER WITH ASHANTI GOLDFIELDS COMPANY LIMITED AND FURTHER CAUTIONARY

On 28 October 2003, it was announced that the Government of Ghana had made a statement supporting the merger (the "Merger") of AngloGold and Ashanti Goldfields Company Limited ("Ashanti"). This statement followed the announcement by Ashanti on 27 October 2003 that the Board of Ashanti continued to recommend AngloGold's revised proposal for the Merger. As set out in the detailed announcements of 4 August and 15 October 2003, the Merger is conditional on the support of the Government of Ghana, both in its capacity as regulator and shareholder of Ashanti. Further to its announcement on 29 October 2003, AngloGold is pleased to announce that the Government of Ghana has confirmed the principal terms of the agreement that it will enter into as regulator of, and shareholder in, Ashanti. These undertakings are subject to the finalisation of a definitive agreement.

Agreement with the Government on a regulatory framework

A key aspect of the rationale for the Merger is expeditious and optimal development of the Obuasi mine's deep level ore reserves ("Obuasi Deeps"). The Government has confirmed its intent to enter into a stability agreement with AngloGold that will provide the fiscal and regulatory framework necessary to facilitate an accelerated development of this project. In return for the regulatory undertakings required as part of this agreement, AngloGold will undertake, after consummation of the Merger and receipt of the approval of the Parliament of Ghana for these undertakings, to issue 2,658,000 AngloGold ordinary shares to the Government of Ghana. An overview of the key terms, the details of which will be finalised in the definitive documentation are set out below:

The mining lease relating to the Obuasi mine is currently due to expire in 2024. Although the capital expenditure necessary for the development of Obuasi Deeps will have been incurred by 2024, the mine will continue to produce gold well beyond that date. The Government will undertake to extend the mining lease for the Obuasi Mine until 2054.

The Government of Ghana will undertake that the level of royalty payments will be 3% of revenue for the next fifteen years for all of AngloGold Ashanti's mining operations in Ghana. Under current legislation, royalty rates vary between 3% and 12% of revenue depending on the level of profitability of the operation concerned. Under proposed new mining legislation the royalty rate would, absent the stability agreement, increase to between 4% and 6% of revenue depending on the level of profitability.

The corporate tax rate payable in Ghana, where the group will be listed, will be 30% for the next fifteen years although the rate of corporate tax applicable to private companies in Ghana is 32.5%.

The Government of Ghana will also undertake that none of AngloGold Ashanti's operations in Ghana will, for the next fifteen years, be adversely affected by any action by the Government of Ghana that has the effect of imposing additional obligations on those operations. In addition, none of AngloGold Ashanti's Ghanaian operations will be adversely affected by changes to the level of payments of any customs or other duties relating to mining operations, taxes, fees and other fiscal imports or laws relating to exchange control, transfer of capital and dividend remittance. This stability provision eliminates the risk of adverse changes in the fiscal environment in Ghana and consequently is of value to AngloGold as it increases the certainty of future cash flows.

The Government of Ghana has also confirmed its willingness to clarify that the rights attaching to the special rights voting preference share (the "Golden Share") will apply solely to the assets and operations of AngloGold Ashanti in Ghana. The Government of Ghana will continue to hold its Golden Share in Ashanti.

The package of regulatory undertakings set out above is subject to the consummation of the Merger and the approval of the Parliament of Ghana, and is to be settled by the issue of 2,658,000 AngloGold ordinary shares.

Support of the Government as a shareholder

The Government of Ghana, in its capacity as a 17% shareholder in Ashanti has also endorsed the recommendation of Ashanti's board and confirmed that it will agree to vote in favour of the Merger and against any other competing proposals during the term of its agreement with AngloGold and for a period ending on the earlier of six months following termination of the Transaction Agreement entered into between AngloGold and Ashanti on 4 August 2003, as amended (the "Transaction Agreement") and 31 July 2004, if the Transaction Agreement is terminated by Ashanti following a withdrawal of the Ashanti board recommendation.

Timing and further cautionary announcement

The Transaction Agreement would have terminated on 31 October 2003 had the regulatory undertakings and support of the Government of Ghana, as referred to above, not have been received. In order to afford the parties time to finalise the formal agreements regarding such undertakings and support, AngloGold and Ashanti have agreed to extend this date to 14 November 2003, or such later date as may be agreed by AngloGold and Ashanti.

Following the Government's decision AngloGold intends to move towards completion of the merger as soon as possible. Completion is still anticipated in the first quarter 2004.

Shareholders are advised to continue to exercise caution when dealing in AngloGold's securities until a further announcement is made.
