CERTAIN DEFINED TERMS

Unless indicated otherwise, the terms Bladex, we, our, our company and us refer to Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S.A. and its subsidiaries. The term Panama refers to the Republic of Panama.

THE COMPANY

Our company, headquartered in Panama City, Panama, is a specialized supranational bank established to finance trade in Latin America and the Caribbean, which we refer to in this Prospectus as the Region. Our company was established pursuant to a May 1975 proposal of the XX Assembly of Governors of central banks in the Region, which recommended the creation of a multinational organization to increase the foreign trade financing capacity of the Region.

Edgar Filing: LATIN AMERICAN EXPORT BANK - Form S-8

Our company was incorporated on November 30, 1977 under the laws of Panama as Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S.A. and commenced operations in January 1979. We operate under the commercial name of Bladex. Panama was selected as the location of our company's headquarters because of the importance of the country as a banking center, the benefits of a fully U.S. dollar-based economy, the absence of foreign exchange controls, the geographic location of Panama and the quality of its communications facilities. Under special legislation enacted in 1978, our company was granted certain privileges by the government of Panama, including an exemption from the payment of income taxes in Panama.

We are principally engaged in providing short-term trade financing to selected commercial banks in the Region, which in turn lend to businesses primarily active in foreign trade and to state and private corporations. The majority of our loans are extended in connection with specific foreign trade transactions that have been identified.

Our lending activities are funded by inter-bank deposits, primarily from central banks and financial institutions in the Region, by borrowings from international commercial banks and, to a lesser extent, by the sale of floating and fixed rate debt securities (placements) made with financial institutions and investors in Japan, Europe and North America. We do not provide retail-banking services to the general public, such as retail savings accounts or checking accounts, and we do not take retail deposits.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, S.A. has two primary subsidiaries:

Bladex Holdings Inc., which is a wholly owned subsidiary, was incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware on May 30, 2000 and continues to exist thereunder, although it does not currently conduct any commercial activity.

Bladex Representação Ltda., which was incorporated under the laws of Brazil on January 7, 2000 and continues to exist thereunder, was established to operate our representative office in Brazil.

Banco Latinoamericano de Exportaciones, Limited, which operated under the commercial name of Bladex Cayman, was a wholly owned subsidiary incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands (B.W.I.) on September 8, 1987. Bladex Cayman ceased all banking business and surrendered its banking license in December 2004 and was dissolved effective December 29, 2005.

Our company established an agency in the State of New York, which we refer to as the New York Agency, which began operations on March 27, 1989. The New York Agency is principally engaged in obtaining inter-bank deposits and borrowings to finance our foreign trade loans and investments. Since December 31, 2002, our operations in New York City have been located at 708 Third Avenue, 16th Floor, New York, New York 10017. Our company also has representative offices in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and in Mexico City, Mexico. Towards the end of 2004, we received approval from the Superintendency of Banks in Panama to open a representative office in Miami, Florida, and are currently seeking approvals of the Florida State Banking Department and the Federal Reserve Bank in the United States in connection therewith.

RISK FACTORS

Please carefully consider the following risk factors, along with the other information contained in this Prospectus, including the documents incorporated by reference, before deciding whether to invest in Class E shares.

Risks Relating to the Region

Since our credit portfolio is concentrated in Latin America and the Caribbean, adverse changes in economic conditions in those countries, could adversely affect our growth, asset quality, prospects, profitability and financial condition.

Our company's lending activities and, as a result, its credit portfolio are concentrated in the Region. Historically, economies of countries in the Region have experienced significant volatility characterized, in some cases, by political uncertainty, slow growth or recession, declining investments, government and private sector debt default and restructurings, significant inflation and/or devaluation. Changes in global economic conditions, including the price of oil, the U.S. dollar exchange rate, and slower economic growth in developed countries, could also have a significant adverse effect on the economic condition of countries in the Region. In turn, adverse changes affecting the economies of countries in the Region could have a significant adverse impact on our credit portfolio, including increased loan loss provisions, debt restructurings, and loan losses and, as a result, on our growth, asset quality, prospects, profitability and financial condition.

Our lending activities are concentrated in a relatively small number of countries and clients, exacerbating the possible effect that adverse economic changes in such countries could have on our company.

All of our lending activities are concentrated in a relatively small number of countries, which could have an adverse impact on our company's credit portfolio and, as a result, its financial condition, growth, prospects, cash flows and results of operations if one or more of those countries encounter economic difficulties. At December 31, 2004, approximately $2,162.8 million, or 73.5%, of our company's credit portfolio was outstanding to borrowers in the following four countries: Brazil ($1,180.3 million, or 40.1%); Mexico ($379.9 million, or 12.9%); Chile ($362.6 million, or 12.3%); and Argentina ($240.0 million, or 8.2%).

In addition, at December 31, 2004, 20.9% of our total credits were to five borrowers in Brazil and 11.2% of total credits were to three borrowers in Mexico. A significant deterioration of the financial condition of any of these borrowers could require us to create additional allowances for credit losses, or suffer further credit losses with the effect being accentuated because of this concentration.

Local country foreign exchange controls or currency devaluation may harm our borrowers' ability to pay U.S. dollar-denominated obligations.

Since we make U.S. dollar-denominated loans, we face the risk that local country foreign exchange controls will restrict the ability of our borrowers to acquire dollars to repay loans on a timely basis, and/or that significant currency devaluation will occur, which could increase the cost, in local currency terms, to our borrowers of acquiring dollars to repay loans.

Increased risk perception in countries in the Region where we have large credit exposure could adversely affect our credit ratings, funding activities and cost of funding.

Downgrades to our credit ratings could adversely affect our funding activity by making our lenders and depositors less willing to lend or place funds with us and by increasing the interest costs for our company. For example, during 2002, the major credit rating agencies downgraded our credit ratings due to our large Argentine credit exposure and the increasing risk of default among Argentine borrowers, in light of Argentina's deposit controls, sovereign debt default and currency devaluation. The downgrades also reflected our large exposure in Brazil, where political and economic uncertainty created concerns about whether we would be required to create additional loan loss allowances. One of our sources of funding for short-term loans is interbank deposits, received principally from central banks in the Region. Historically, these deposits have represented approximately 35% of our total liabilities.

During 2002, these central banks withdrew a substantial portion of their deposits from us, in large part because of the deterioration in our financial condition and the resulting downgrades in our credit ratings. In addition, the dramatic increase in the risk perception of Latin America resulted in a significant decline in the availability of credit lines to the Region. We maintained an adequate liquidity position throughout this period.

The occurrence of similar events in any countries in the Region where we have large exposures could trigger downgrades to our credit ratings. A credit rating downgrade would increase our funding cost, and reduce our deposit base and access to the debt capital markets. In that case, our ability to obtain the funding necessary to carry on our trade financing activities in Latin America at meaningful levels could be severely hampered.

Risks Relating to our Company's Business

Our Company's allowances for credit losses could prove inadequate to cover credit losses related to its loans and contingencies.

Determining the appropriate level of allowances for credit losses necessarily requires judgment on the part of our Board of Directors and management, including assumptions and estimates made in the context of changing political and economic conditions in many of the countries in the Region. Consequently, our level of allowances could be inadequate to cover losses in our credit portfolio, which in turn, could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition, results of operations, and business.

During 2002, because of concerns about the collectability of our Argentine credit portfolio, we increased the allowance for credit losses by $278.8 million, which resulted in a net loss of $268.8 million for the fiscal year 2002 and a reduction of our stockholders' equity in an amount of $269.5 million. The occurrence of similar events may result in higher allowances for credit losses, which in turn, may result in net losses.

As a bank, we face liquidity risk, and our failure to adequately manage this risk could produce a liquidity shortage, which could adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

As a bank, we face liquidity risk, which is the risk of not being able to maintain adequate cash flow to repay our deposits and borrowings required to fund our credit portfolio on a timely basis. Failure to adequately manage our liquidity risk could produce a liquidity shortage in which we would not be able to fund these obligations as they become due. At December 31, 2003 and 2004, liquidity levels amounted to $252.6 million and $150.6 million, representing a net cash position of 35.9% and 17.4% of total deposits, respectively.

Being a U.S. dollar based economy, Panama does not have a central bank in the traditional sense and there is no lender of last resort to the banking system in Panama. In addition, the central banks of other countries in Latin America would not be obligated to act as lenders of last resort if we face a liquidity shortage because we are a Panamanian bank and not located in their respective countries. Accordingly, if we face a liquidity shortage, we would have to rely on commercial sources of liquidity and would not have access to a central bank as lender of last resort, as would a bank located in the United States or in certain other countries. We believe that in the event of a liquidity shortage, commercial sources of liquidity would likely not be adequate to meet our liquidity needs, which could result in our failure and the intervention of the Panama banking authorities.

Our net interest income and thus, our results of operations, could be affected by interest rate volatility.

We are subject to interest rate volatility because a portion of our interest-bearing liabilities may reprice more frequently than our interest-earning assets. In this instance, interest rate increases may have a potential adverse impact on our net interest income. We attempt to manage our interest rate risk by matching, where possible, the terms and repricing characteristics of our interest rate sensitive assets and liabilities. However, this is not always possible given the needs of our borrowers and the available funding sources. Therefore we face the risk that mismatches could occur in the future, and if they do, that sudden, or unexpectedly large movements in interest rate levels could reduce our net interest income.

Although our investment securities portfolio represents a small portion of our assets, the performance of financial markets, including fluctuations in interest rates, may cause changes in the value of our investment securities portfolio and in the amount of revenues generated from these assets.

Increased competition and industry consolidation in some Latin American countries could increase competition and limit our ability to grow in those markets and reduce our profitability, which may adversely affect results of operations.

Most of the competition we face in the trade financing area comes from international banks, mostly European and North American, which provide similar financing services to those provided by us within the markets we serve. These international banks have substantially greater resources and access to less expensive funding than is the case with us, which puts our company at a competitive disadvantage. There can be no assurance that increased competition will not adversely affect our growth prospects and results of operations.

Although some of these international banks compete directly with us, in many cases they are also providers of funding for us and represent a source of business. If these international banks ceased providing funding to us, we would be required to seek funding from other sources, which may not be available, or if available, may only be at higher interest costs.

These changes in the business and in the markets of the Region could potentially place us at a competitive disadvantage with respect to scale, resources, and our ability to develop and diversify our sources of income.

A substantial consolidation of the banking business in Latin America has nevertheless occurred and is continuing. This has reduced the number of local banks in the Region, which historically have been our primary customers for trade finance loans.

We may pursue a capital management strategy that differs from that expected by some of our stockholders or others in the market.

The opinion of our Board of Directors regarding our capital adequacy and needs might differ from that of some of our stockholders or other market participants. If so, our capital management actions and the timing of such actions might not correspond with the expectations of our stockholders or other market participants. Our Board may choose to pursue any of several capital management options, or a combination of strategies, including growth, investments, declaring dividends to stockholders, or repurchasing shares under a stock repurchase program. Our Board is not required to declare dividends (or increase dividends) or effect stock repurchases pursuant to our stock repurchase program, and could use the capital for other purposes, which may not coincide with the preferences of some of our stockholders. To the extent that the capital management strategy elected by our Board differs from expectations of investors or other market participants, it could result in negative market perceptions of us. Dissatisfaction of some of our stockholders or a negative market perception of us with regards to the use of capital could adversely affect our stock price.

Any delays in initiatives that we may undertake could divert the attention of our management, cause additional expenses, or cause other negative repercussions for us.

Part of our strategy is to diversify sources of income through business initiatives that involve partnerships or strategic alliances with specialists, expanding into new markets, targeting new clients and developing new products and services. These initiatives may not be fully implemented within the time frame we expect, or at all. In addition, even if such initiatives are fully implemented, they may not generate revenues as expected. Any delays in securing necessary government approvals, in reaching agreement with strategic partners, or otherwise implementing our strategic initiatives, could divert the attention of our management, result in additional expense, prevent us from pursuing other initiatives or ultimately, prevent us from realizing the anticipated benefits of the initiatives, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

An aggregate number of 8,265 Class E shares, or options to purchase such Class E shares, to which current and former directors were entitled under the Restricted Stock Plan and the Indexed Stock Plan were issued to these directors' respective employers because of prohibitions under the terms of their employment from participating in the Stock Plans directly. These Class E shares are not being offered or sold as part of this Prospectus.

Selling Security Holders may receive additional awards of Class E shares under the Restricted Stock Plan and, upon the lapsing of restrictions on these Class E shares pursuant to the terms of the Restricted Stock Plan, additional Class E shares may be sold.

In addition, Selling Security Holders may receive additional options to purchase Class E shares under the Indexed Stock Plan in the future and, upon the exercise of these options, will receive additional Class E shares which may be sold. The Selling Security Holders and corresponding shares and options held by them, as listed above, are all of the persons eligible to resell Class E shares pursuant to this Prospectus and represent the maximum number of Class E shares available to be resold, including upon exercise of options granted to each such Selling Security Holder, whether or not such Selling Security Holder has a present intent to resell. There is no assurance that any of the Selling Security Holders will sell any or all of the shares offered by them hereunder.

The names of other selling security holders and the number of Class E shares that such other selling security holders may acquire pursuant to the Stock Plans are not known as of the date of this Prospectus. We will file prospectus supplements with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or the SEC, in accordance with Rule 424(b) under the Securities Act in connection therewith.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

The Selling Security Holders and any of their pledgees, donees, assignees or transferees may sell any or all of the Class E shares for value at any time or from time to time under this Prospectus in one or more transactions on the New York Stock Exchange or any stock exchange, market or trading facility on which the Class E shares are traded, in a negotiated transaction or in a combination of such methods of sale, at market prices prevailing at the time of sale, at prices related to such prevailing market prices or at prices otherwise negotiated. The Selling Security Holders will act independently of us in making decisions with respect to the timing, manner and size of each sale. The Selling Security Holders may use any one or more of the following methods when selling Class E shares:

- Ordinary brokerage transactions and transactions in which the broker-dealer solicits purchasers;
- Block trades in which the broker-dealer will attempt to sell the shares as agent but may position and resell a portion of the block as principal to facilitate the transaction;
- Purchases by a broker-dealer as principal and resale by the broker-dealer for its account;
- An exchange distribution in accordance with the rules of the applicable exchange;
- Privately negotiated transactions;
- Underwritten offerings;
- Short sales;
- Agreements by the broker-dealer and the Selling Security Holders to sell a specified number of such shares at a stipulated price per share;
- A combination of any such methods of sale; or
- Any other method permitted by applicable law.

The Selling Security Holders may also sell shares under Rule 144 under the Securities Act, if available, under Section 4(1) of the Securities Act or directly to us in certain circumstances rather than under this Prospectus. The Class E shares received by Selling Security Holders under the Restricted Stock Plan will not be available for sale until the selling restrictions have been lifted pursuant to the terms of the Restricted Stock Plan. The Class E shares underlying options granted to Selling Security Holders under the Indexed Stock Plan will not be available for sale until such options have been exercised.

Unless otherwise prohibited, the Selling Security Holders may enter into hedging transactions with broker-dealers or other financial institutions in connection with distributions of the shares or otherwise. In such transactions, broker-dealers or financial institutions may engage in short sales of the shares in the course of hedging the position they assume with the Selling Security Holders. The Selling Security Holders may also engage in short sales, puts and calls, forward-exchange contracts, collars and other transactions in our securities or derivatives of our securities and may sell or deliver shares in connection with these trades.

If the Selling Security Holders sell shares short, they may redeliver the shares to close out such short positions. The Selling Security Holders may also enter into option or other transactions with broker-dealers or financial institutions which require the delivery to the broker-dealer or the financial institution of the shares. The broker-dealer or financial institution may then resell or otherwise transfer such shares pursuant to this Prospectus. In addition, the Selling Security Holders may loan their shares to broker-dealers or financial institutions who are counterparties to hedging transactions and the broker-dealers, financial institutions or counterparties may sell the borrowed shares into the public market. The Selling Security Holders may also pledge their shares to their brokers or financial institutions and under the margin loan the broker or financial institution may, from time to time, offer and sell the pledged shares. The Selling Security Holders have advised us that they have not entered into any agreements, understandings or arrangements with any underwriters, broker-dealers or financial institutions regarding the sale of their shares other than ordinary course brokerage arrangements, nor is there an underwriter or coordinating broker acting in connection with the proposed sale of shares by the Selling Security Holders.

The Selling Security Holders and any broker-dealers that participate in the distribution of the Class E shares may be deemed to be underwriters within the meaning of the Securities Act, and any commissions received by them and any profit on the resale of the Class E shares sold by them may be deemed to be underwriting discounts and commissions under the Securities Act.

We will pay all costs, expenses and fees incurred in connection with the registration of the Class E shares offered hereunder. Except as otherwise provided under the Stock Plans, all selling and other expenses incurred by the Selling Security Holders will be borne by the Selling Security Holders. Our company will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale by the Selling Security Holders of Class E shares acquired or to be acquired under the Stock Plans, although we will receive the exercise price from the Selling Security Holders upon the exercise of options granted under the Indexed Stock Plan.

There is no assurance that the Selling Security Holders will sell all or any portion of the Class E shares offered under this Prospectus.

This means that we can disclose important information to you by referring you to another document that we have filed separately with the SEC. The information incorporated by reference is considered to be part of this Prospectus, and certain later information that we file with the SEC will automatically update and supersede this information. We incorporate by reference the following documents:

- (b) all other reports filed with, or furnished to, the SEC by our company pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Exchange Act since June 23, 2005; and
- (c) the description of our company's capital stock included in its Registration Statement on Form 8-A under the Exchange Act (Registration No. 1-11414), including any amendment or report filed for the purpose of updating that description.

All documents subsequently filed by our company pursuant to Sections 13(a), 13(c) and 15(d) of the Exchange Act, prior to the filing of a post-effective amendment which indicates that all securities offered hereby have been sold or which de-registers all securities then remaining unsold, will be deemed to be incorporated by reference in this Prospectus and to be a part of it from the date of filing of those documents. ENFORCEABILITY OF CIVIL LIABILITIES

We are a corporation with limited liability (sociedad anónima) organized under the laws of Panama. Most of our directors and officers and certain advisors named in this Prospectus reside outside the United States. As a result, it may not be possible for investors to effect service of process within the United States upon these persons or enforce against them or us in U.S. courts judgments predicated upon the civil liability provisions of the federal securities laws of the United States.

Arias, Fábrega y Fábrega, our Panamanian legal counsel, has advised us that there is doubt as to the enforceability, in original actions in Panamanian courts, of liabilities predicated solely on the United States federal securities laws. Arias, Fábrega y Fábrega also advised us that there is doubt as to the enforceability, in Panamanian courts, of judgments of U.S. courts obtained in actions predicated upon the civil liability provisions of the U.S. federal securities laws.

DISCLOSURE OF COMMISSION POSITION ON INDEMNIFICATION FOR SECURITIES ACT LIABILITIES

Our Board of Directors and stockholders have adopted resolutions requiring us to indemnify any officer or director of our company against expenses and liabilities incurred by such director or officer in connection with any action, suit or proceeding brought by reason of his or her capacity as such, if such director or officer acted in good faith and in a manner he or she reasonably believed to be in, or not opposed to, the best interests of our company and, with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, if such director or officer had no reason to believe his or her conduct was unlawful. Our company has obtained liability insurance on behalf of its directors and officers against any liability asserted against them in their capacity as such, whether or not the company would have power to indemnify them against such liability.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers or persons controlling the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, we have been informed that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is therefore unenforceable.

All documents subsequently filed by our company pursuant to Sections 13(a), 13(c) and 15(d) of the Exchange Act, prior to the filing of a post-effective amendment which indicates that all securities offered hereby have been sold or which deregisters all securities then remaining unsold, will be deemed to be incorporated by reference in this Registration Statement and to be a part of it from the date of filing of those documents.

Item 9. Undertakings.

(a) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes:

(1) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this Registration Statement (i) to include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the Securities Act); (ii) to reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of this Registration Statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the Registration Statement; or (iii) to include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the Registration Statement or any material change to such information in the Registration Statement; provided, however, that (i) and (ii) do not apply if the information required to be included in a post-effective amendment by (i) and (ii) is contained in periodic reports filed by the registrant pursuant to Section 13 or 15(d) of the Exchange Act that are incorporated by reference in this Registration Statement.

(2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new Registration Statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.

(b) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes that, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each filing of the registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Exchange Act that is incorporated by reference in the Registration Statement shall be deemed to be a new Registration Statement relating to the securities offered herein, and the offering of securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(c) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities under the Securities Act may be permitted for directors, officers and controlling persons of the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the SEC such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the registrant of the expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
