Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition

Beginning with the first quarter of 2019, PayPal Holdings, Inc. (“PayPal,” the “Company,” “we,” “us,” or “our”) will reclassify certain operating expenses within its consolidated statements of income. Prior period amounts will be reclassified to conform to this presentation in the Company’s Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2019. These changes have no impact on the Company’s previously reported consolidated net income for prior periods, including total operating expenses, financial position, and cash flows for any periods presented.

The classification changes relate primarily to the combination of costs incurred to develop and operate our Payments Platform into a new caption entitled Technology and development. This new caption includes: (a) costs incurred in operating, maintaining, and enhancing our Payments Platform, including network and infrastructure costs, which were previously classified in the Customer support and operations caption, and (b) costs incurred in developing new and improving existing products, which were previously classified in the Product development caption on the Company's consolidated statements of income. In addition, we are eliminating the presentation of Depreciation and amortization expense as a separate financial statement caption by reclassifying these expenses into financial statement captions aligned with the internal organizations that are the primary beneficiaries of the depreciation and amortization of such assets.

Below are the descriptions of each of the Company's revised operating expense categories:

Customer support and operations:

costs incurred in our global customer operations centers, including costs to provide call support to our customers costs to support our trust and security programs protecting our merchants and consumers and other costs incurred related to the delivery of our products

Sales and marketing:

costs incurred for customer acquisition, business development, advertising, and marketing programs

Technology and development:

costs incurred in connection with the development of our Payments Platform, new products and the improvement of our existing products, including the amortization of (i) software and website development costs incurred in developing our Payments Platform which are capitalized and (ii) acquired developed technology our site operations and other infrastructure costs incurred to support our Payments Platform

General and administrative:

costs incurred to provide support to our business, including legal, human resources, finance, risk, compliance, executive, and other support operations

The following tables present the effects of the changes on the presentation of these operating expenses as reflected in the Company's previously reported consolidated statements of income on a basis consistent with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP").
