Item 8.01 Other Events

As previously reported, we are conducting an internal review of revenue recognition matters in connection with an ongoing SEC investigation. In the course of that review, we have identified certain non-cash items not previously corrected. Our financial statements throughout this period, including the specific matters described below, were audited by KPMG, and that firm agreed with our accounting. These items are as follows:

- We have determined that we made an error in accounting for profits on certain aftermarket spare parts primarily in our Aviation business. Under long-term product services agreements, we provide repair and maintenance for installed products, including spare parts. We recognize revenue and profits over the contract period in proportion to our contract costs. An element of our contract costs is the cost of spare parts. Before January 1, 2002, our Aviation business accounted for the profits on spare parts installed pursuant to long-term product service agreements either in its spare parts unit or in its revenue recognition model for commercial engines. Effective January 1, 2002, with the concurrence of KPMG, we changed our accounting for spare parts in two ways that largely offset: to exclude spare parts from the model for engine sales and to include margin in long-term services agreements to the extent spare parts are associated with such agreements.

In making this change, we changed our estimate of the unperformed portions of long-term product services agreements to use our cost instead of catalogue list price. We have determined that because we did not also recompute our pre-2002 spare parts costs on the same basis, we overestimated the percentage of completion of affected agreements and underestimated the related contract profit rates, an error that resulted in accelerating revenues and profits attributable to such agreements in 2002 and understating revenues and profits in some future periods. Similar adjustments in the accounting method for estimating the cost of spare parts installed pursuant to long-term services agreements were made by Aviation in 2003 with respect to spare parts manufactured by a joint venture partner and in our Energy business in 2006. The effect of correcting this error is to decrease 2002 net earnings by $585 million and to increase net earnings in 2003, 2004, 2005 and 2006 by $177 million, $96 million, $102 million and $38 million, respectively. The correction of this error will result in modestly higher revenues and earnings in some future periods. This error is referred to in the accompanying schedules as “Spare parts profit.”

The amounts above do not include amounts reflected in the accompanying schedules as Cumulative effect of accounting changes.

- We have determined that for periods prior to 2004, we made an error in our application and description of appropriate revenue measurement principles in certain Infrastructure businesses that should have applied AICPA Statement of Position 81-1, Accounting for Performance of Construction-Type and Certain Production-Type Contracts. The effect of correcting this error is to increase 2002 net earnings by $15 million and to decrease 2004 net earnings by $8 million. This error is referred to in the accompanying schedules as “Long-term contracts.”

Edgar Filing: GENERAL ELECTRIC CO - Form 8-K

To assist in understanding the effects of these items, we set forth below the effect of these items on selected portions of our financial statements, as previously corrected in a Form 8-K filed on October 12, 2007 and on a Form 10-Q filed on November 2, 2007:

- Statement of Financial Position at December 31, 2005 and December 31, 2006; and
- Statement of Earnings for the years ended December 31, 2002, December 31, 2003, December 31, 2004, December 31, 2005 and December 31, 2006 and for each of the quarters ended March 31, 2005, June 30, 2005, September 30, 2005, December 31, 2005, March 31, 2006, June 30, 2006, September 30, 2006, December 31, 2006, March 31, 2007, June 30, 2007 and September 30, 2007.

The summary adjusted data treat our Plastics, Advanced Materials, U.S. mortgage business (WMC) and Japan personal loan business (Lake) as discontinued operations for all periods, and exclude immaterial end of 2006 audit differences that were recorded in the first quarter of 2007.

We and our audit committee are evaluating the circumstances surrounding and the effect of these items on our previously reported financial statements under applicable accounting standards and SEC guidance and their bearing on our internal control over financial reporting, including any material impact on the effectiveness of such controls. We expect to complete this evaluation, and to determine the appropriate manner for reporting the necessary corrections for the above items, which could require restating our 2006 Form 10-K to give effect to the adjustments reflected in the accompanying schedules, by the time we file our Form 10-K for fiscal year 2007.

Our internal review and the SEC investigation, which began in 2005, are continuing, and we are continuing to evaluate issues in connection with such review and investigation, including in connection with the preparation and filing of our 2007 Form 10-K. Our management and audit committee continue to monitor the review closely, with the assistance of outside experts, and to discuss issues with the SEC staff as part of our ongoing cooperation with the SEC investigation. We and our audit committee are committed to addressing any issues that may arise and to providing transparent disclosure to our investors concerning any such issues.

The items identified above do not affect the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of GE Capital or GE Capital Services.
