Dear Fellow Shareholder:
Dear renow Shareholder.
Tom Vento seems to take cheerful pride in our Company s offer is that he doesn t understand what it means to be the C about poor results?	earning $3.8 million on $91 million of capital. The most charitable explanation I can CEO of a public corporation. Has even a single director challenged Tom for bragging

Tom is seeking to adopt stock benefit plans without holding a democratic public shareholder vote. Isn t there a single director who believes, in the quiet of his heart, that a democratic vote should take place? Doesn t a single director believe it s not fair to get a big payday unless the public shareholders who purchased shares have their say?

Given that 71% of public shareholders voting last year withheld their votes from the directors, you would think that the above-named men would have had some pause when Tom pursued approval of the stock benefit plans right after that meeting. Have those men no shame?

I hereby challenge the directors: I will drop the lawsuit if you merely agree to put the stock benefit plans to a public shareholder vote. If 51% of the public shareholders approve the plans, they are yours. All I masking, and have ever asked, is that management convince the public shareholders that they we earned the benefits. Shareholders, as we know, tend to be charitable to managementsWHY DON TYOU PUT IT TO A DEMOCRATIC VOTE?

Tom s problem isn t that I ve demanded or want greenmail. His problem is that I ve repeates suggestions, winks, and nods from him and his advisors that I sell out for a quick personal gain.

I ve invested in financial institutions for over twenty years. I believe PBIP has great potential and intend to keep my 9% position to reap the success that PBIP could achieve if properly managed. My Group s investment in the Company is 13 times larger than all of the directors combined. Why on earth would I recommend a capital allocation plan that could hurt my investment?

Tom seems to think I want to take over PBIP or force it into a sale. He should consult with one of PBIP s many, many lawyers. Even if I wanted to force it into a sale, I couldn t. I can t even elect a single director. All I can do is see to it that the insiders don t get stock benefit plans until a majority of the public shareholders believe they ve been earned.

If you agree that the Company s directors should put the stock benefit plans to a democratic vote. WITHHOLD your vote from the election of directors, which is Proposal 1 on the enclosed proxy card, by marking the box WITHHOLD. If you receive a card from the Company, THROW IT IN THE GARBAGE.

If you ve already returned the Company s card, you can still change your vote and vote for our slate by returning the GREEN card to us.

Thank you for your time and support.

Sincerely,

/s/ Joseph Stilwell Joseph Stilwell
