- o Series of greenmail transactions by Coastal in connection with unsolicited bids for publicly traded companies, including Texas Gas Resources, Pioneer Corp., Houston Natural Gas, and Sonat in the 1980s

HEADLINE: PENNZOIL TURNS DOWN BID BY UNION PACIFIC RESOURCES

DATELINE: HOUSTON

BODY:

Pennzoil Co.'s board recommended shareholders reject a $ 6.4 billion hostile takeover bid from Union Pacific Resources Group Inc., calling the offer inadequate and ill timed.

Union Pacific Resources said it was "disappointed, but undeterred" by the response of Pennzoil's board, and said a combination of the companies is "inevitable."

Pennzoil chief executive James Pate said Pennzoil shareholders will gain more if the company remains independent because it is poised to reap the benefits of an extensive restructuring over the past two years, he said.

"This is not the time to be selling the company," Pate said in a telephone conference call.

Seeing the company's strategic plan to fruition "promises to deliver more value to shareholders than any kind of combination with Union Pacific Resources or anybody else," he said. The Pennzoil board is "in unanimous agreement that we want to remain independent," he said.

Pennzoil's financial advisers, Lehman Brothers Inc., Evercore Group Inc. and J.P. Morgan Securities Inc., also said the Union Pacific Resources' offer was inadequate, the Pennzoil official said.

The Pennzoil statement that it could better Union Pacific's offer of $ 84 a share through internal growth drew skepticism.

Union Pacific Resources, which is based in Fort Worth, Texas, said in a statement that "the Pennzoil response today offers nothing new for shareholders. For many years, Pennzoil's management has claimed to be pursuing new strategic initiatives, all without results."

Benjamin Rice, an analyst with Brown Brothers Harriman, said without another buyer, Pennzoil's rejection of the offer was a mistake.

"Pennzoil has a short reserve life and a lot of debt," he said. "To reject that offer, they've got to have a white knight coming in, but I don't know who else is going to come along. I don't know what Pennzoil is going to be able to do to give shareholders $ 84 of value."

Union Pacific Resources said it could develop Pennzoil's oil and gas properties in the Gulf of Mexico more effectively and more profitably than Pennzoil. A Pennzoil acquisition also would give Union Pacific Resources the nation's top brand of motor oil and Jiffy Lube, the largest chain of quick-change automotive oil centers.

Pennzoil shares fell 1 1/8 to 75 3/8, while Union Pacific Resources rose 1/8 to 25. Pennzoil's decision was announced after the close of trading.

In its critique of the Union Pacific bid, Pennzoil also questioned the value of Union Pacific Resources' two-tier offer, which would pay cash to the first Pennzoil shareholders to surrender their stock and Union Pacific Resources shares to the rest. The company said the Union Pacific stock value might drop in value.

In explaining its restructuring, Pate said Pennzoil sold 90 percent of its oil and gas properties to focus on the most-promising prospects and slashed costs by cutting the dividend and laying off workers.

At the same time, the Houston-based company updated its Shreveport, Louisiana, refinery and entered a lubricants joint venture with Conoco Inc. The two projects will provide $ 70 million, or $ 1.50 a share, of after-tax cash flow to Pennzoil as they become fully operational, he said.

The takeover offer also doesn't adequately value Pennzoil's international oil and gas properties, said Stephen Chesebro', president of Pennzoil Exploration and Production Co.

Pennzoil is a partner in two exploration ventures in the Caspian Sea that are believed to hold billions of barrels of oil each, and is searching for crude and natural gas in Egypt, Qatar and Venezuela. The company's international portfolio "is irreplaceable today," Chesebro' said.

Pate said second-quarter earnings that will be reported later this month "should match or exceed" estimates of a survey of analysts and results for all of 1997 also will meet or exceed estimates for the full year.

Pennzoil is expected to earn 69 cents a share in the second quarter that ended yesterday and $ 3.36 for the full year, based on an average estimate of analysts surveyed by First Call.

The company will have cash flow of over $ 12.50 a share this year, up from $ 9.50 last year and $ 6.75 in 1995, Pate said.
