Validus Clarifies IPC's Statement on Timing of Closing

Hamilton, Bermuda June 9, 2009 Validus Holdings, Ltd. (Validus) (NYSE: VR) today announced that RiskMetrics Group, the leading independent proxy voting and corporate governance advisory firm, has reaffirmed its previous recommendation that shareholders of IPC Holdings, Ltd. (IPC) (NASDAQ: IPCR) vote AGAINST all of the proposals related to the amalgamation agreement between IPC and Max Capital Group Ltd. (Max). RiskMetrics reviewed its prior recommendation in light of recent changes to the proposed Max amalgamation and Validus further increased offer for IPC, which was announced yesterday. RiskMetrics analyses and voting recommendations are relied on and followed by numerous institutional shareholders, mutual funds and fiduciaries.

Ed Noonan, Validus Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, "Two rigorous reviews by RiskMetrics have both concluded that IPC shareholders should reject the proposed Max amalgamation. We urge IPC shareholders to follow RiskMetrics recommendation and preserve their right to receive greater value for their shares by voting AGAINST the Max transaction at IPC's June 12th shareholders meeting.

Under Validus further increased offer, IPC shareholders will receive $3.75 in cash and 1.1234 Validus voting common shares for each IPC common share for a total consideration of $30.36 per IPC share based on Validus closing price today. This is a 12.5% premium to today's IPC closing price. Validus superior offer contrasts with the proposed Max amalgamation, in which IPC shareholders would receive less cash, which is being paid solely through dividends. These dividends are essentially just returning IPC shareholders their own money and Validus believes, like most special dividends, will not result in a meaningful increase in IPC's aggregate shareholder value.

Mr. Noonan continued: "If IPC shareholders reject the Max transaction, we hope that IPC's Board will do the right thing and support our increased offer, which provides greater value and can be completed on a timely basis for the benefit of IPC shareholders. We believe IPC's Board should be focused on maximizing value for its shareholders, rather than continuing to try to create confusion about Validus superior offer.

Validus notes that IPC has recently asserted that a Validus transaction cannot be completed until mid-August even on a friendly basis. This is wrong. In a friendly transaction, IPC shareholders would be able to receive the consideration available under Validus' Exchange Offer by the end of June, assuming the conditions of the Exchange Offer are satisfied.

Vote AGAINST Proposed Max Amalgamation

IPC's annual general meeting is only 3 days away. Validus urges IPC shareholders to follow RiskMetrics' recommendation and to preserve their right to receive Validus' superior offer by voting AGAINST the proposed Max amalgamation. Validus urges IPC shareholders to vote on the GOLD proxy card TODAY. Shareholders who have previously voted on IPC's white proxy card are urged to revoke or change that vote by contacting Georgeson Inc. toll-free at (888) 274-5119 (banks and brokers should call (212) 440-9800), or email validusIPC@georgeson.com.
