The Amendment clarified that certain cancers related to the human reproductive system are within the scope of the licensed field, amended the development and commercialization benchmarks to be met and added or modified certain milestone payments due to NIH on the achievement of certain benchmarks. In particular, the Amendment revised the dates by which certain development and commercialization benchmarks must be met. These revisions include an extension of the date by which the Company is required to file an NDA covering a licensed product in the United States for a first indication from June 30, 2009 to June 30, 2011. In addition, under the amended Agreement, the Company is required to obtain financing, upfront licensing consideration, or any combination thereof, of no less than a combined total of $6,000,000 by September 30, 2009. The Amendment also (1) extended the dates by which certain other benchmarks must be met, including benchmarks relating to filing for approval of a licensed product in Europe and Japan, the filing of an NDA for a licensed product in a second indication in the United States, and the application for regulatory approval of a licensed product in a second indication in Europe and Japan, and (2) added benchmarks relating to initiation of Phase 3 clinical trials in Europe and Japan for licensed product in a second indication. Failure to meet these benchmarks could result in modification or termination of the Agreement. The Company paid PHS an amendment issue royalty in the amount of $100,000 in connection with entering into the Amendment.

The foregoing description of the Amendment is qualified in its entirety by reference to the actual amendment filed herewith as Exhibit 10.1 which exhibit is incorporated herein by reference.
