On June 17, 2015, EXOR S.p.A. (“EXOR”) sent the below letter to shareholders of PartnerRe Ltd. and posted the letter to the website www.exor-partnerre.com:

Dear Fellow PartnerRe Shareholders:

At PartnerRe’s Special General Meeting of Shareholders on July 24, 2015, you will be asked to make an important decision about the future of your investment in PartnerRe. We write to you as PartnerRe’s largest shareholder, having invested more than $600 million to acquire 9.9% of PartnerRe’s outstanding common shares. We urge you to vote the enclosed GOLD proxy card AGAINST all three proposals related to the AXIS transaction. This is a critical step in blocking this inferior transaction and finally allowing shareholders the ability to realize the superior value offered to the company by EXOR. Please do not vote or return the WHITE proxy card sent to you by PartnerRe, and if you have sent it in already, you can still fill out and return the GOLD card to override the vote.

PartnerRe is asking you to vote in favor of its planned amalgamation agreement with AXIS, a transaction that is inferior to EXOR’s binding, all-cash offer to acquire PartnerRe for $137.50 per share. We strongly believe that a PartnerRe/AXIS combination is not in your best interest. Before you decide how to vote, we suggest you consider asking the following questions of PartnerRe’s Board of Directors:

How can the PartnerRe Board believe that $125.17<sup>1</sup> is greater than $137.50?

Answer: Our $137.50 per share, all-cash binding offer delivers superior value for both PartnerRe common and preferred shareholders. Our offer recognizes not only a 20% premium to the latest unaffected share price of PartnerRe, it also represents a significantly higher premium compared to the average PartnerRe share price over the past five years and does so without relying on gimmicks such as paying one-time special dividends and leveraging the company to finance future stock buybacks. Under EXOR’s ownership, PartnerRe will be a financially stronger institution compared with the PartnerRe/AXIS combination. We aren’t sure what kind of “math” PartnerRe’s Board is using but we believe shareholders aren’t easily fooled by such tactics, and will have an opportunity to express themselves at the upcoming special meeting.

Why did PartnerRe refuse to provide EXOR with customary shareholder information that would be used to inform PartnerRe shareholders of the merits of EXOR’s superior offer?

Answer: We believe that PartnerRe’s refusal to give us customary shareholder information was meant to prevent you from becoming fully informed of your options, a critical step in evaluating the merits of the AXIS transaction. In our view, this is merely the latest in a series of actions undertaken by PartnerRe’s Board to protect the inferior AXIS transaction at the expense of its own shareholders. Based on their actions, one can only conclude that they know our offer is superior, and are trying to censor the flow of information in order to manipulate the outcome of a vote.

<sup>1</sup> Consists of 2.18 shares of AXIS and special dividend of $11.50 per PartnerRe share. Based on AXIS’ unaffected closing share price of $52.14 on 5/5/2015 (last closing price prior to takeover speculation for AXIS if AXIS Agreement terminated)

What is the impact of AXIS/PartnerRe's plan to pay out more than $3.5 billion of capital to its common shareholders in the form of dividends and common stock buybacks through year-end 2017, in the context of its proposed combination with AXIS?

Answer: This planned capital drain will significantly weaken PartnerRe's financial strength at a point when both PartnerRe and AXIS have been placed under review with negative implications by A.M. Best. In contrast, EXOR's $137.50 per share, all-cash binding offer fully preserves PartnerRe's financial strength, while delivering full and superior value for PartnerRe shareholders.

Why has PartnerRe deliberately misrepresented EXOR's offer by claiming there is "considerable risk that the rating of [PartnerRe] preferred shares would be downgraded upon sale to EXOR"?

Answer: This statement by PartnerRe has no merit and has not been endorsed by Standard & Poor's ("S&P"), the rating agency.

S&P has affirmed that EXOR is rated as an Investment Holding Company and therefore EXOR's rating and the ratings of its investee companies are independent of one another. EXOR's debt is not attributed to its investee companies, and the debt of its investee companies is not attributed to EXOR. These statements have been reviewed and affirmed by S&P.

Calculations publicized by PartnerRe which purport to aggregate the debt of EXOR and its investee companies are therefore wrong and do not follow S&P's rating methodology. For PartnerRe preferred shareholders, this means that should PartnerRe accept EXOR's binding offer for the Company, EXOR's capital structure will not affect the ratings of PartnerRe, including the BBB rating of PartnerRe preferred securities.

We urge you to protect your investment in PartnerRe. Please sign, date and vote the GOLD proxy card AGAINST all three proposals related to the AXIS transaction. Do not sign or return any WHITE proxy cards you receive from PartnerRe. If you have already returned a WHITE proxy card, you can change your vote by simply returning the GOLD proxy card today.

You may receive a call from PartnerRe shortly if you have not yet. We suspect they may not mention any of these troubling issues. In fact, they may not even mention that there is another higher-priced offer presently before the PartnerRe Board.
